

THE GOLD NUGGET

October 2009

The Prez Pro-Tem Sez by Gary

Thanks to Aaron Ingalls and the general membership for allowing me to run the board meetings and the regular meetings for the remainder of this year. Please remember Aaron is still our club president and is still in the loop concerning club business.

The club picnic at Lions Park was a great success! About 35 members attended. Great food, great fellowship, and even a little gold panning made for a great day in the park.

Joe Schubert is busy running the Nominating Committee and getting things ready for club elections. He collected nominations at our September meeting and is ready for the next step. To clarify a few questions about the elections, here is what the bylaws state:

1. "...shall present a tentative slate of candidates for office at the October regular Membership Meeting;
2. "...shall present a final slate of candidates at the November regular Members Meeting.
3. Voting for board members and officers will occur at the November meeting.

Robert Larson and I have decided to give away the large nugget from Chile at the October meeting. Thanks to everyone who has supported this member only drawing.

Sue Lemieux is again promoting our annual Pumpkin Carving contest! Get a pumpkin, get creative and bringing your art work to the October meeting.

Hope to see you and your pumpkin October 21.

Geologist Ed Raines will speak on "Fakes and Hoaxes" in the mining business. Ed is Co-Manager of (specimen) Collections for the School of Mines Museum, a newly created position. He asked to be first on our meeting agenda so be sure to get there early.

NOVEMBER CLUB ELECTIONS

Greetings fellow prospectors, it is that time of the year again for elections. I am asking you to start thinking about who you would like to nominate or if you would like to run for a position as officer or a board member. If you would like to run, put you name in. Some new blood as an officer or a board member would be great. New people and new ideas are what help make a good club.

The rules for being an officer or a board member are as follows:

- 1) A person nominated for an office must be a Club Member in good standing.
- 2) The candidates for President and Vice-President shall be persons who have been active committee person, or Officer, or Director during the previous year.
- 3) The candidates for being a board member must be a Club Member in good standing.

Thanks

Joe Shubert

Colorado School of Mines Geology Museum!

By Gary Hawley

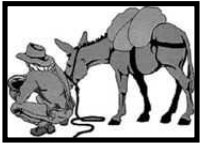

The Colorado School of Mines Geology Museum has undergone many changes in the last year.

Several of the changes are: a self-guided tour brochure; a redesigned website and new labels for displayed specimens. They also have a portable x-ray fluorescence unit for chemical analysis.

The Museum has several new exhibits: the Climax mining district, highlights from John Marshall's pyromorphite collection, a celebration of the 150th anniversary of the Colorado Gold Rush, an explanation of the Colorado mineral belt, and cave formations from the Clear Creek Cave which was discovered in 1988.

The museum plans to soon have a 2010 mineral calendar that will feature specimens from their Allison-Boettcher gold collection.

If you'd like more information on the museum, contact Bruce Geller, Museum Director at 303-273-3823

A Brief History of Creede, Colorado By Jim Long

I was born and raised in the San Luis Valley in southern Colorado. My father was a part-time prospector in the hills and mountains above Creede, Lake City, and north of Del Norte for silver, gold, and for uranium using a small Geiger counter. My brother and I would accompany him but we were too young to really know what he was doing. I still have his old relic Geiger counter, along with several of his old books on lost gold mines and ghost towns of Colorado. Oddly, I found no 'old' samples of those minerals or gems in his possessions after his death, though he did have some samples of opals and turquoise. By the time I thought to ask him about that period of his life, it was too late. Life can often be disappointing in the things we should have done, could have done, and often failed to do. But it does go on.

I know that he had numerous claims that he filed above Creede and they have all been lost or given back due to passage of time and lack of work, after all, that was over 60 years ago. But his old handwritten notes are pretty cool to read through.

Why Creede? Simple. He knew the old timers had been there long ago and that Creede continues to be somewhat of a mining mecca, even today. Trappers and mountain men first arrived in the early 1800's and Tom Boggs, a brother in law of the famed Kit Carson, farmed at Wagon Wheel Gap in 1840. In 1869, the first silver discovery was made at the Alpha Mine, but it was too costly to mine it and not much happened until 1889 when rich deposits were found in Willow Creek Canyon. This produced the town of Willow Creek until Nicholas C. Creede discovered the Holy Moses Mine. It was so rich that Willow Creek was renamed Creede. Other towns in the vicinity were named Stringtown, Jimtown, and Amythest. They are all ghost towns today and little remains of any of them.

Creede was the last silver boom town in Colorado in the 1800's. The Creede mines continued to operate from 1889 to 1985.

'Soapy' Smith was the boss of the Creede underworld, opening the famous Orleans Club. Robert Ford became famous for killing the notorious outlaw Jesse James (apparently a shirt-tail relative of mine on my mother's side), and even Bat Masterson who operated a bar at one time. The first Deputy Sheriff of Creede was the famed William 'Cap' Light, a brother in law to Soapy. By 1893, the silver boom went bust as the Silver Panic hit all of the Colorado mining communities. Most of the mines closed shortly thereafter. Today, there are a couple of mines that have reopened under new ownership with new money. Its population is about 2000 and sustaining. As with many of our mining towns, the town survived on lead and zinc recoveries from 1900 to present. Interestingly, by 1966, total production for this area was some 58 million troy ounces (870 metric tons) of silver, 150 thousand ounces (407 metric tons) of gold, 112 thousand metric tons of lead, 34 thousand metric tons of zinc, and 2 million metric tons of copper. Not too bad at all.

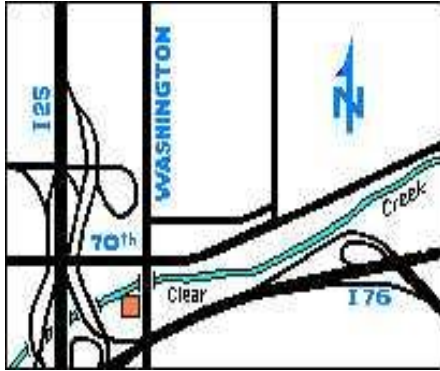

Today, Creede is sustained by ranching and some farming, as well as a great deal of recreation in the form of fishing, hunting, and hiking. Both, my father's and my mother's ashes were spread by me at their final request, at the headwaters of the Rio Grande river that runs above Creede.

My family has always had a strong attachment to Creede and the surrounding area. It is a beautiful place to visit full of the usual rock and gem shops and other art galleries and such.
